Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America: Esta Baitler

Dr. Karen Ventrano, TRC Environmental Corporation, by way of a conference called summarized the results and answered questions relating to the air/stack testing done in the area of Aluf Plastics (via telephone). A copy of her Letter of Review is marked Exhibit 10-G-17.

Summary of Public Comments:

Regina Blake, Pearl River, was here last year and 15 years ago asking for a senior meeting place. The Town has received grant money for fields, sidewalks, train station improvements, etc. How about grant money for a new senior center. She submitted a petition with 90 signatures.

Lisa Sheridan, Pearl River – plans for the Hillside Project started in 2007, received approval in 2016 and it was never handled correctly. Residents were not notified, have jumped thru red tape and do not get the same treatment as developers. Where does the developer's rights end and resident's rights begin?

Carmel Reilly, Pearl River, the Hillside site is large scale and in 100-year flood plain. It floods with greater regularity. She is concerned with increase of flooding and run-off with chemicals and salt into the Muddy Brook creek.

Dr. Kathleen Kelly, Pearl River - what is Dr. Ventrano's training, in health risks and what is her medical degree? She does not believe the odors are safe. She is glad to hear about a second round of testing and hopes it will be done during times of complaints.

Eileen Larkin, Palisades, What was the timeframe the study was done and Did Aluf know the testing was being done? She supports the Town to seek State money to build a senior center. There is a lot of underhandedness with the Land Use Boards and commercial developers.

Environmental issues are a big thing for Orangetown residents.

Allyson Sullivan, Blauvelt – Is the Town checking the other manufacturing facilities violating the Code and fining them? She hopes the odors will be eliminated by 2018.

Heather Hurley, Pearl River, three times the odors were not attributed to Aluf. The first round of DEC testing did not include all chemicals. If the chemical scrubbers are not an effective way, when will a new ventilation system be installed? Just because we are in receipt of preliminary analysis, does not mean we are finished.

Meg Skrapits, Pearl River, the Town has failed the community, with trees coming down, no notifications, properties not zoned accordingly, changing zoning to accommodate special groups, etc. How is the Town going to rectify failures?

Esta Baitler, Sparkill, wants to know when the new streetlights along Route 340 will be installed. Krystof Witek, Clean Air 4 Orangetown, our goal is to permanently stop the noxious odors coming out of Aluf and any other manufacturing/industrial plants in Orangetown. A copy of his comments is labeled Exhibit 10-H-17.

Robin Riemenschneider, Pearl River, is not happy with the Hillside project. Tree cutting, clearing of the site, and large dust clouds started on a Federal Holiday. The temporary fence was put up after work started, workers are parking on side streets, there are unsafe work practices, no transparency and rules and regulations are not being followed.

Amy Ball, Pearl River – this is a great community to live in but she is worried about environmental issues. She is looking for trust and a comfort level.

Joanne DiLorenzo, Pearl River, What improvement does the Hillside Commercial Park bring to the Town? She has had enough of the Town Board doing reactive planning.

Mariajose Romero, Blauvelt, the Town Board should not take data on air quality lightly. Air quality is a strong predictor of asthma and chronic absenteeism.

Tracey Hancock, Pearl River, went to the Building Dept. with her concerns that the Hillside Park developer is not following conditions and regulations. She was immediately told “It’s getting built!” Developers are treated with more respect and curtesy than residents.

Tanya Witek, Tappan, collection of air quality data is a positive beginning. The second sampling will address bigger problems. Regulating other manufacturing facilities is important. The search for a highly qualified Public Health Engineer needs to widen and posted on many job search and relevant Engineering sites as possible.

Michael Palko, Pearl River, quality of life has been reduced in the short time that construction of the Hillside Park has started. Large trees have been taken down along the boundaries; there has been sound pollution, and lights have increased. The Town does not seem to care about the residents; they only seem to care about commercial rateables.

Robin Skura, Blauvelt, the air smells are horrifying. All manufacturers need to be regulated and constantly checked for violations. Our codes need to be updated as soon as possible.

Robert Wells, Pearl River, the dust from the construction of Hillside Park is unbearable. The developer is not following rules, regulations and conditions. What oversight and control is the Town doing?

Barbara Delo, Blauvelt – How much money has the Town spent on Aluf’s testing and will Aluf reimburse the Town? Are we exposed to lawsuits? There is the importance of affordability. The Town should not spend more than residents can afford.

Ira Steinberg, Blauvelt, appreciates the air monitoring study and would appreciate if Aluf would pay for this study. He asked that the Town Board recommend to the Land Use Boards not to grant any variances to Aluf.

Natalie Boelman, resident of Palisades and Earth Scientist at Lamont Doherty, found it hard to understand Dr. Karen Ventrano’s report of Aluf’s air study.

Thom Kleiner, candidate for Supervisor, we have to learn what went right and what did not go right through these case studies. We may need a more defined (increased) buffer zone. If residents are still smelling burning plastic, then this issue has not been resolved. The selling of 60, most difficult acres at RPC for JPMChase Datacenter, is a huge creditable accomplishment.

Chris Day, candidate for Supervisor, appreciates the Town’s efforts with the air pollution coming from Aluf. Aluf needs continuous monitoring and be watched for any Code violations. The code has to be changed to not be able to grant variances. He is against any more industrial sites but in favor of more clean rateable.
